

Note: Non-communicable diseases account for increasingly larger proportions of mortality, with cancers and injuries the major contributors.